

My husband and I signed up for the no-call list because we were tired of telemarketers calling our home. It doesn't matter whether we've done business with them in the past - our lives have changed dramatically and we don't want calls from any of them at this point. No telemarketers, no banks, no credit card companies - no call list means no calls except from family and friends. Please do not change the Indiana no-call list just because the banks are demanding it. It isn't fair. They have no right to invade our privacy.
